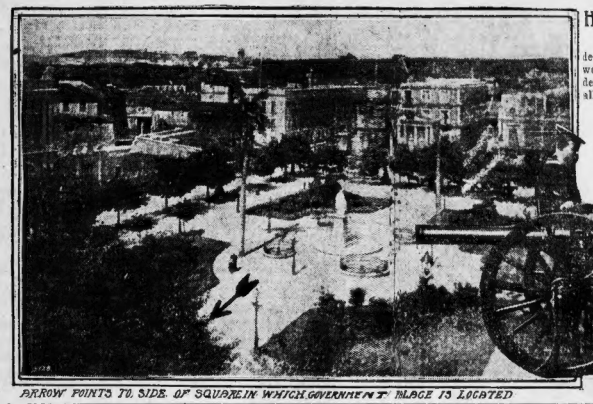
PALMA'S TROOPS RETREAT AFTER SHARP FIGHT



ARROW POINTS TO SIDE OF SQUARE IN WHICH GOVERNMENT PALACE IS LOCATED

COPYRIGHTED PHOTO BY E. MOLLER.

HOW U. S. GUNS PROTECTED PALMA.

The blue jackets of the Denver were encamped all night in the Plaza de Armas, or square fronting the presidential palace. The machine guns were brought to command the approach to the executive mansion. Orders from Washington, however, resulted in the return to the Denver of all the sailors except a small guard.

REBELS WIN!

Plantations Burned and Postal Service to Eastern Cuba Cut Off by Insurgents—United States Blue Jackets Return to War-ships.

BY PUBLISHERS' PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The State Department to-day received two dispatches from Charge d'Affaires Sleeper at Havana.

One of them says that the Western railway bridge at Calabazar and the bridges of the United Railways at Bejucal and Rincon, all in Havana province, have been destroyed by the rebels. There is no traffic running on the Cuban Central, Western or United Havana railways.

The buildings on the Hormiguero Central Company's Constancia plantation and on the Hacuse plantation, near Cienfuegos, have been burned by the rebels. The Governor of Santa Clara province says that the city of Santa Clara is threatened.

Government Troops Driven Back.

The second dispatch from Mr. Sleeper, dated last night, says that it is reported that 300 insurgents attacked the rural guards Wednesday morning at Zaza del Medion, and that the government lost eighteen men, while the loss of the insurgents is not known.

The government forces retreated to Sanctus Spiritus. A rumor is current that there is an uprising in Camaguey.

The postal service between Santiago and Havana is interrupted. Mr. Sleeper's report is based on a telegram received from the United States consul at Santiago yesterday afternoon.

FEAR OF MILK FAMINE; PRICE TO BE RAISED

Quarrel Between Producers and Contractors May Cut Off Supply.

Refusing the demand of the milk producers for two cents more a can for milk, the Boston Milk Trust has determined to raise the price of milk. Not content with getting seven cents a quart now for milk, it is said that by next month the price will be eight cents and possibly nine or even ten cents a quart before the Winter is over. The producers have been getting 3½ cents a can. They demand 4½.

At a meeting of the directors of the Milk Producers' Organization, which comprises the farmers of New England who ship milk into Boston and contractors who buy the milk and then sell it to the retailers, which was held at the American House, but three of the leading contracting firms were present, two ignoring the demand of the farmers' organization that they be considered in the proposed raise in prices.

Two Big Firms Stay Away.

All the contractors had been invited to be present. Those represented at the meeting were the C. Brigham Company of Cambridge, the Elm Farm Creamery of Dorchester and the David Whiting & Sons of Charlestown. The H. P. Hood Company and the Boston Dairy Company refused to treat with the producers at all.

The three concerns which were represented at the meeting last night would decided nothing, are all controlled by the Whiting Company. They refused to consider the demands of the milk farmers, and the latter left, threatening to shut off Boston's milk supply entirely.

The producers will meet throughout their directors in Worcester next Monday and take final action.

The farmers of New England have been receiving 3½ cents per can, each can holding eight quarts and one pint of milk. Now the producers, through their directors, demand 4½ cents per can or they say they will shut off the 40,000 cans of milk that Boston receives daily from them.

W. A. Hunter of Worcester, one of the directors of the Milk Producers' organization, who was present at the meeting, said to-day to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN:

"This will mean a fight to the finish. It will mean a big milk war and great suffering among the people.

Contractors Pocket Profit.

The milk contractors of Boston not long ago raised the price of milk. We got no advance. They pocketed the extra money and the public suffered. They comprise a milk trust which is trying to squeeze both the farmers and the people at the same time and pocket all the profits themselves.

A. H. Grosvenor, manager of the Boston Dairy Company, said: "The farmers have organized a trust to raise the price of milk. There is no contractors' strike. We will not consider the proposition to pay more for milk. I will fight to a finish. I can get milk anyway even if they do shut it off, but the poor people will probably suffer in the event of a war."

The following men composing the directorate of the Milk Producers' Organization were present at the meeting last night: President J. E. Perkins of Antrim, N. H.; Stanley Abbott of Wilton, N. H.; S. H. Peckham of East Woodstock, Ct.; Jonas Bemis of Charlestown Depot, N. H., and W. A. Hunter of Worcester, Mass.

MANTHORNE CHIEF OF NEW W. U. OFFICE

George E. Manthorne, who broke into the telegraph game in this city, is back here as manager of the new branch office which the Western Union has just opened at No. 9 Pemberton square. Mr. Manthorne has been in charge of Haverhill and the Lowell offices since he left this city. Friends of his former days here are renewing acquaintance with him now.

SOCIETY WOMAN'S GEMS STOLEN STRANGELY

JEWELS WORTH $1,125 TAKEN FROM MRS. S. N. ALDRICH'S SUMMER HOME.

News was given out by the Lynn police to-day of the mysterious theft of $1,125 worth of jewels, belonging to Mrs. Samuel N. Aldrich of this city, from the Aldrich Summer home in Lynn.

Mr. Adrich is president of the State National Bank at No. 50 Congress street. The family has its town house at No. 228 Newbury street. They live there in the Winter, entertain extensively and are numbered among the fashionable Back Bay set.

The Summer home, where the robbery occurred, is No. 187 Ocean street, Lynn, the most fashionable district of Lynn and one of the most exclusive places along the North Shore.

The missing jewels and their value are:

Diamond earrings	$600
Ruby ring set in diamonds	450
Diamond solitaire ring	75

News Suppressed Since Saturday.

The theft occurred last Saturday between 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, as near as Mr. Aldrich can estimate it. At Mr. Aldrich's earnest request the Lynn police, to whom the loss was reported the next day, kept the matter secret. As all search for the jewels has proved futile, however, Mr. Aldrich, on the advice of the police, authorized them to give out the news of the theft and to offer a liberal reward for their return.

The case is quite a mysterious one. Acting Chief David A. Bartlett of the Lynn police says:

"The thief was undoubtedly someone familiar with the premises."

The facts in the case, so far as known to Mr. Aldrich and told to the police, are as follows:

Last week Mrs. Aldrich went away for a few days. Mr. Aldrich, at her request, took the jewels, in a little plush jewel case, in to Boston and deposited them in his safety deposit vault. In anticipation of Mrs. Aldrich's return last Saturday, Mr. Aldrich took the jewels back to the summer home in Lynn at noontime. He carried them upstairs to Mrs. Aldrich's apartment and placed them on her dresser. Then he went down stairs. A little later they had luncheon and then went driving.

While driving Mr. Aldrich remarked casually:

"I brought your jewels home and put them on your dresser."

"I didn't see them," replied Mrs. Aldrich in some surprise, "probably I overlooked them."

They finished their drive. When she returned home Mrs. Aldrich looked for the jewels and found they were missing. She told Mr. Aldrich. Thorough search was made, but in vain. They decided not to say anything to the servants. Two maids have access to the upper part of the house but, as Mr. Aldrich emphatically told Acting Chief Bartlett, he has implicit confidence in the maids.

It was not till Sunday that Mr. Aldrich reported the loss to Acting Chief Bartlett. He asked the latter to look in the pawnshops, but not to tell the newspapers, and especially not to come to the house and attempt any search, as that would necessitate telling the maids, and possibly making them feel ill at ease.

Bartlett did so, but struck no trace of the missing jewelry. He learned from Mr. Aldrich that a gold watch, in plain sight in Mrs. Aldrich's room, and some money in the next room had not been touched. This lent additional mystery to the matter.

Bulldog Made No Noise.

The Aldriches have a bulldog at the summer place all the time. He is a strictly business proposition in the bulldog line and it would ordinarily be impossible for a stranger to even enter the grounds without the animal raising a row, to say nothing of the intruder being able to get into the house.

On account of this Acting Chief Bartlett is inclined to think someone well acquainted with the place and the occupants, dog and all, worked the theft.

He followed Mr. Aldrich's instructions, however. Finally, after the pawnshop search proved fruitless, he persuaded Mr. Aldrich to let the news of the theft be published.

"I authorize you to offer a liberal reward for the return of the jewels," Mr. Aldrich also said to Bartlett.

7 INDICTED FOR FRAUD IN NATURALIZATION

FEDERAL GRAND JURY ALSO FINDS TRUE BILL FOR VIOLATION OF 8-HOUR LAW.

Indictments against seven out of the eight men recently arrested on charges of participation in naturalization frauds were returned by the Federal Grand Jury which reported to-day to Judge Dodge in the United States District Court. The eighth case, that of John Morgan, was continued.

The seven indicted are Daniel J. Holmes, John Walter Molloy, James O'Toole, John J. Sullivan, John J. McCarthy, William J. Monahan and Cornelius O'Leary. The first four of these failed to answer when their names were called. The other three pleaded not guilty.

Contractor William H. Ellis, who has been building a pier at the Charlestown Navy Yard, was indicted for violation of the Federal eight-hour law. The complaint against was Business Agent Collis W. Cameron of the Carpenters' District Council.

Nathan Ginsberg of Salem and Max Matthews of Boston were indicted for concealment of assets in bankruptcy cases.

WANTS MORE GAS STOCK.

The Board of Gas Commissioners yesterday gave a hearing at the State House on the petition of the Cambridge Gaslight Company for approval of an issue of $100,000 additional capital stock to be applied to the cost of additions to the plant.

"Elect New President; Guard Ballot Box," Insurgents' Terms For Peace

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—With nearly the whole island in their control and 30,000 troops mobilizing for an advance on Havana, the Cuban revolutionists, through the New York junta, have announced the terms on which they will lay down arms.

General Orestes Ferrara has signified his adherence to the proposed terms, and General Lotnoz de Castillo and Brigadier-General Asbert have signed an agreement to the same conditions. It is said Guerra will accede.

This document is now in the hands of President Palma. In part it is as follows.

We accept the mediation of General Menocal. We would propose that the former congress, which was elected in 1902, be called together and asked to select an acting president of the republic. We agree to abide by the result of this election.

As a second step, we propose that new elections for president, congress and governors of provinces be held, the ballot-urns being safeguarded against interference.

A. P. RUGG APPOINTED TO SUPREME BENCH

WORCESTER LAWYER, PARTNER OF EX-CONGRESSMAN THAYER, NAMED FOR VACANCY.

Arthur P. Rugg of Worcester, law partner of ex-Congressman John R. Thayer, was to-day appointed a justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Justice John Lathrop.

The appointment of Mr. Rugg came as a complete surprise to the bar of Massachusetts. Lawyers generally took it for granted that the governor would promote some member of the Superior Court bench to the place vacated by Justice Lathrop.

The new justice is one of the best known lawyers of Worcester county. He is a Republican. He has been at different times a member of the Worcester Common Council, of which he served as president. He has been assistant city solicitor and city solicitor of Worcester. In a sense he was a protege of the late United States Senator George F. Hoar, who is known as an able lawyer. Mr. Rugg is about forty-five years old. He will be one of the youngest members of the Supreme bench. Governor Guild's selection of Mr. Rugg to the bench is believed to be the result of the protests made by organized labor against Judge Gaskill on account of granting blanket injunctions in the Iron moulders' strike at Worcester. The Governor's change of front may also be attributed to a further desire to appease the labor element because of the appointment of President Dana to the Superior Bench, and the governor's avowed apathy toward the over-time bill, which Dana, as president of the Senate, had sidetracked by casting the deciding vote.

CUDAHYS HAVE $400,000 FIRE

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 14.—The big plant of the Cudahy Brothers Packing Company, at Cudahy, Wis., six miles south of Milwaukee, was partially burned early to-day. The loss is estimated at $400,000. The plant carries an insurance of about $200,000. One man was killed and several are said to have been severly injured.

The beef house, glue works and killing department are a total loss. The fire got into the main building, but the flames were checked there and the structure was saved.

"LAWSON" BOY IS YOUNG LYON

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the young man who, posing as a son of Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, married a young woman at Providence and was arrested last Monday, charged with non-support, is cleared up by a statement made by his counsel. He said:

"The young man is not related to any family by the name of Lawson. His family name is Lyon and his home is in Brooklyn. He is only eighteen years old, and is not, as reported, the son of wealthy parents. He has no income whatever of his own, and there is no money available to be used in settlement."

REBELS APPEAL TO AMERICAN PEOPLE

By Publishers Press.

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—With the exception of a small guard left to protect the American Legation, all the 155 sailors landed from the cruiser Denver have returned on shipboard.

While the sailors are gone, however, the feeling aroused by their landing has not subsided. For all practical purposes the sailors might as well be on land. The Denver lies within a stone's throw of the landing at the foot of O'Reilly street, and the sailors can be landed again within a few moments if it becomes necessary.

APPEAL TO AMERICAN PEOPLE.

A statement of the Cuban insurgents' cause has just been given out by a courier from General Guzman, whose headquarters in the field are at the Central Andrelta plantation, near Cruces, Santa Clara province.

It is in the nature of an appeal to Americans to allow Cuba to settle her own troubles, which amount to a restoration of it to the shackles of the old Spanish rule, thinly veiled by the pretence of a republic. General Guzman declares that the constitution has been thrown away and the royal laws of ancient regimes revived.

"It has become necessary to resort to arms—not for war if it can possibly be avoided, but as a demonstration before a court, a court of last resort, that the spirit that has for a century fought against royal oppression still endures and will suffer again the hardship of campaigns rather than yield the fruits of hard-won liberties. By a vast majority Cuba is with us. If the present administration in Havana chooses it can end the war at once, but we are not to be tricked by Palma's commissioners, whose authority he may later deny.

"We do not wish the intervention of the United States in this question, which is purely one of our own liberty. The rights and properties of Americans will be respected at all times by our forces. That Cuba will suffer as a result of the war is unfortunately inevitable, but it is for the Cubans, our fellow-countrymen, who will suffer."

FEARED EFFECT OF LANDING.

A desire not to unduly alarm and excite the people of Havana is understood to have been the reason for the positive instructions from Washington demanding the return of the sailors to their ship.

SAILORS AT CIENFUEGOS

Havana has been further excited by a report to-day circulated to the effect that the United States troops may be disembarked to take an upper hand in the troubled affairs of Cuba the moment President Roosevelt decided that the acts of the insurrectionary leaders have made it necessary for this Government to carry out the provision of the Platt amendment, which stipulates that the United States may intervene for the maintenance of government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty.

Common prudence has obliged the military and naval general staff and board to provide against any eventuality. So while the navy is preparing nine ships to send to Cuba the army is being carefully studied by the responsible ranking officers with the view to quick, sharp and effective action in case its services are needed.

The President and the State Department are looking for the crisis in Cuban affairs within the next forty-eight hours.

There has been an understanding that the insurgents were to try to force the surrender of Havana by the 15th of the month.

The Department of State had a conference yesterday with Mr. Watkins, who has interests near Havana. Aside from Mr. Watkins' request there are volumes of letters at the department, all indicating that the United States ought to step in and preserve the peace.

Secretary Bonaparte left here yesterday for Baltimore, and from there will go to visit the President at Oyster Bay to-day. The situation, which is hourly becoming more acute.

JACKIES AT CIENFUEGOS.

At Cienfuegos the marines landed from the gunboat Marietta, which arrived yesterday, are still holding their position on land.

How far the United States forces now at hand or on their way to Cuba will go in protecting President Palma and his government is the subject now discussed. Palma's inability to protect himself against the insurgents is well-nigh complete, and in a few of the larger cities, where considerable forces of loyal troops are concentrated, the government is utterly disorganized. Without assistance from the United States, the present regime cannot last much longer. Unless some act of Congress, which meets in special session to-day to consider the crisis, gives it new prestige.

READY TO FLEE.

From the evident preparations made by Palma to flee from his palace and seek refuge on the cruiser Denver, the revolutionists and their supporters, who have now taken up arms are hopeful that there will be no active intervention except to protect American interests.

All eyes are now turned toward the session of Congress to-day. It is really only a rump parliament, as no Liberal members will be in attendance. The government has thrown every Liberal member it could capture into prison. The others are in the insurgent armies or in hiding. Still, the Moderate majority, acting as a Congress, may be able to do something to bolster up Palma's waning cause.

Reports received last night and this morning tell of the destruction of several plantations. In a few instances property of Americans was destroyed. It is feared the United States may make this the excuse for active intervention if such a course is decided upon. In ravaging the plantations dynamite was used by the insurgents, and this is regarded as a dangerous development.

CRISIS IN HANDS OF THE PRESIDENT

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt is holding an impromptu cabinet meeting over the Cuban situation at Sagamore Hill to-day. Secretary of War Taft, Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, Secretary of State Root and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon are giving him the information they possess and the telegraph wires between Oyster Bay and Washington are being kept hot with reports from subordinates who are keeping the head of the administration in touch with Havana.

Secretary Taft reached Oyster Bay at 12:2 p. m. from New York. He took his vacation in Canada off short to answer the President's summons.

The President sent for Secretaries Taft and Bonaparte to ascertain from them the state of preparedness of the army and navy should an emergency arise in which they are needed for serious work.

Before going to Sagamore Hill Mr. Bacon said that the landing of marines from the ban soll from the Denver had been made for the sole purpose of protecting American interests.

"Was the order issued by the State Department?" Mr. Bacon was asked.

"I cannot say anything about it," replied the Assistant Secretary of State.

"Do you think the time has come for American intervention?"

"Some people who have property interests in the island think the United States should intervene," he replied diplomatically.

Mr. Bonaparte then added frankly: "I'm very glad that I will not be called upon to decide that question actively. Happily that is outside of my jurisdiction."

UNION FIELD DAY OF 20,000 ODD FELLOWS

Great Outing of Greater Boston Fraternity at Point of Pines To-morrow.

Twenty thousand Odd Fellows from the different lodges of Greater Boston are to-day completing final arrangements for their great union field day, which is to be held to-morrow at Point of Pines, Revere. The Odd Fellows have secured the exclusive use of Point of Pines for all the day and evening, and they fully expect that if the weather be at all favorable the field day to-morrow will be the best the Boston lodges have ever held.

A complete and varied programme of sports, dancing and other entertainments has been planned. Games and contests of all kinds are being arranged, including baseball, tug-of-war, three-legged race, climbing the greased pole, potato race and nine other games for women and girls. Suitable prizes are to be given to the leaders in each event. The children have not been forgotten, and many outings are to be placed in position, and donkey riding will be a popular pastime.

In the afternoon and evening a band will give concerts and there will be dancing in the hotel dance hall, for which a special orchestra is to be provided. The dancing is to be free. For the use of those who wish to plunge in the surf free dressing rooms are to be at their disposal. A fine dinner at a popular price to the Odd Fellows and their friends is to be served in the hotel and for those who bring their own lunches tables are to be provided. All trains on the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad will stop at Point of Pines to-morrow. The picnic grounds will be open from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. The Grand Master and the board of grand officers have promised to be present.

The two great baseball rival teams of the Odd Fellows, the Middlesex lodge nine of Malden and the Neptune of Revere, will play a match game.

MORAN SETS WORD AGAINST MR. QUINCY'S

Refuses to Give Name of Banker Who Made Proposal to Him at Latter's Request.

District Attorney John B. Moran today will add nothing to his reply to the demand of Chairman Josiah Quincy of the Democratic State Committee in which he declines to give the name of the bank president who, he says, told him that there would be no opposition to his nomination for Governor if he would leave the city organization undisturbed, and also accept a platform satisfactory to all factions. Mr. Moran thinks that his reply is final, and that the next move is up to the opposition.

Asks to Withhold Name.

Mr. Moran refuses to make the name of the man public on the ground that yesterday this man asked him by telephone not to reveal his identity. Mr. Moran says that he will not tell who he is just now, and that he will allow his word to stand against that of Josiah Quincy, especially as he is strengthened in his position by the fact that T. J. Kohler arranged the memorable interview between Mr. Moran and the banker.

Mr. Moran's statement, which was issued last night, in part, is as follows:

"In his most recent interview Mr. Quincy uses these words: 'I do not think that Mr. Moran ought to be allowed to run public ownership on as a side track in his mail to lead the cause of tariff reform, nor do I think that Mr. Williams will allow him to do so.'

"Inasmuch as I merely emphasized my belief in reciprocity and tariff reform, repeating the planks in my platform on those subjects, and exposed the deliberate and repeated falsehoods of my opponents as to my position on reciprocity and tariff reform, there is no reason conceivable for the words quoted above being uttered by Mr. Quincy, except that one which would present a mind constitutionally incapable of entertaining and expressing a truth. Mr. Quincy desires to trick the people into the false belief that I intend to sidetrack the issue of public ownership, and he intentionally uses language calculated to deceive. The use of deceptive language constitutes falsehood, and again I brand him as one whose word is worthless.

"He told ex-Congressman Joseph H. O'Neil that 'the good thing is about used up,' as he had nobody can control him. He will be Governor himself.'

"And now he says that Mr. Williams will not allow me to sidetrack the issue of public ownership.

No Sidetracking.

"Every issue outlined in my published platform, including public ownership, will be advocated. None of them will be sidetracked.

"Over the telephone to-day I was informed by the banker that he did not wish to have his name made public. It may be that he is afraid the directors, under instruction, will remove him from the presidency, or it may be that his entire future is at stake.

"For the present I will respect his wishes and will place my word, corroborated by the witness, against that of Mr. Quincy."

U. S. ARMY AND NAVY READY FOR CRISIS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The army general staff has completed plans so that United States troops may be dispatched to take an upper hand in the troubled affairs of Cuba the moment President Roosevelt decided that the acts of the insurrectionary leaders have made it necessary for this Government to carry out the provision of the Platt amendment, which stipulates that the United States may intervene for the maintenance of government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty.

SAY RICH MAN KIDNAPPED HIS WIFE'S SISTER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Charged with having abducted his pretty sister-in-law in an automobile, Charles Carbine, a wealthy New York merchant, is under arrest here to-day.

The girl is Miss Agnes Mulroney, eighteen years old, whose sister married Carbine several years ago. They had quarreled and the police say he seized the girl for revenge.

While standing on the street last night to Glenside with friends, Miss Mulroney was seized by three men and forced riding up in an automobile. The number on the machine led to Carbine's arrest.

Later Miss Mulroney was located in a room at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

FIND MANGLED BODY ON TRACK

The body of an unidentified man, horribly mangled, was found at the Third street crossing of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad early to-day. He was about fifty years old, five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 150 pounds and had a dark gray mustache. He wore a dark blue serge coat with gray striped vest and trousers and lace runner shoes.

The body was taken to the City Hospital morgue and Medical Examiner McDonald notified.

PILLAGE AND MURDER RAGE AT SIEDLCE

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Times publishes a private telegram from Warsaw in regard to the Siedlce massacre. It says: "The commander at Siedlce continued yesterday. Christian and Jewish deputations again waited on the Governor and implored him to order that the massacres cease. As the Governor still made the impossible demand that the revolutionaries be surrendered, the deputations offered themselves as hostages for the good behavior of the civil population.

"This was refused by the Governor. Murders and pillage continued throughout the day.

The Jewish town of Kosgba, in the district of Kamenetz, has been burned by peasants. Many of the inhabitants perished in the flames and some were killed in flight.

Odessa's dead walls have been plastered with a manifesto issued by the "Union of Russian People," urging patriots to combine to exterminate the Jews.

EARL'S SON, TO WED CAMILLE CLIFFORD, GIVES HIS REASONS FOR LOVING HER

CAMILLE CLIFFORD. FULL FIGURE SHOWS FAVORITE STAGE ROLE.

'She Wants Me and I want Her," Declares Hon. Mr. Bruce.

6 Reasons Why Bruce Is to Wed Camille Clifford

I love her and she loves me.
She has a beautiful singing voice.
I believe she could rely on a great future with her voice alone.
She is the most kind-hearted girl I ever met.
She has a pretty face and figure.
We want each other, Miss Clifford and I, and that is all we care about.

Giving six reasons for his love for pretty Camille Clifford, of Boston, formerly a humble housemaid and then a chorus girl, but now known far and wide as a dainty actress of beauty and talent, the Honorable Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, son and heir of Lord Aberdare of England, declares that despite parental opposition he is going to wed her whether or no. The news comes by cable from London to-day.

"I love her and she loves me," stoutly declares the young Englishman. "We want each other, Miss Clifford and I, and that is all we care about. She has a beautiful singing voice and I am exceedingly fond of music of all kinds. I believe she could rely on a great future with her voice alone. She has a pretty face and figure. She is the most kind-hearted girl I ever met. These are six reasons why we should wed."

This rhapsody of love was uttered in a matter-of-fact, unconventional manner, but in a way that carried conviction with it. The young lord-to-be, as he modestly declared his love for the charming Boston actress, was working in the public garage which he has just bought near Waterloo station, in London, S. E.

Father "Quite Annoyed."

"When I told my father that I had asked Camille Clifford to become Mrs. Bruce and that she had refused me, but that I was going to ask her again, he was quite annoyed. Of course I am sorry, but that has not changed my determination. I am a director in a South Wales colliery company and have some property in Philadelphia through my mother.

"I will not ask Miss Clifford to give up her life on the stage for one of comparative poverty. Of course, I maintain myself in my Westminster flats, but I'll not have her working for her living and making more than I can. That's why I bought this garage.

"If she wants to wait six years before marrying me, she shall. She is due at the Vaudeville on September 20, and if she wants to stay on the stage I have no objection, now I am in a fair way of earning a living and enough for both. But I want to be in London if my wife remains on the London stage.

"We want each other, Miss Clifford and I, and that is all we care about. Of course, it is very unpleasant that my parents should not want to recognize our engagement, and, as none of our family friends have asked me to shoot this year the feeling seems to have extended.

"Miss Clifford has a beautiful singing voice, though she only began to learn to use it a year or two ago. I am exceedingly fond of music of all kinds, and I believe she could rely on a great future with her voice alone.

"A Most Kind-Hearted Girl."

"She is the most kind-hearted girl I ever met, and I have taken her on many little expeditions of generous good will, to poor children particularly.

"I have never said we were to be married in October, though, of course, I wish it could be so. February was the earliest date named between us. 'I have only known you six months' Miss Clifford said before she went away.

"Miss Clifford," he resumed, "when I wired to her this week, saying I was going to buy the business, replied asking me to wait till she returned from Norway. I have replied to this that the business is bought, and I think, when she arrives next Monday, she will approve.

"I don't want people to think I'm a silly dude, who has become infatuated from the stalls, with a pretty face and figure. I have never been a playgoer, and the open-air life is what I love. Except for one or two people Miss Clifford has introduced me to, I don't know another actress.

"If I ever go to America I shall carry a gun for reporters. She has sent me cuttings, showing my palace in South Wales—not a bit like Duffryn, which, moreover, isn't mine—and mysterious 'portraits,' with my name under them. And they tell amusing stories about me, and call me a nobleman and all kinds of nonsense. And Miss Clifford never said a word to any one—she only saw one reporter, and to him, perforce, denied the engagement, though she was wearing my ring.

"And some London paper to-day quizzes my dress, and makes me say, 'Doncher-know'—an expression I never used in my life.

SEEK IN VAIN FOR CANDIDATE AGAINST MORAN

Six Wise Leaders, Yet Hopeful, Await Result of the Primaries.

NOW HINT AT STAMPEDE

No candidate in sight, but still hoping to find one.

That is the situation as regards the efforts of the opponents of John B. Moran for Governor.

Six of them met yesterday by appointment at the office of Congressman John A. Sullivan. The time was set for 3 o'clock, but the six wise Democrats were slow in getting together. They arrived in single file instead of in a bunch, and the last, but not least, to arrive was Josiah Quincy.

About 3.30 p. m. all were seated, with Congressman John A. Sullivan in the chair. It was like a praise service, as each man told of his experiences since John B. appeared on the horizon.

Each one of the six told how they looked to the four winds of heaven, expecting somebody could blow in and offer himself as a sacrifice. In this respect the six were not disappointed, for Editor William H. McMasters tapped at the door and was let in, but only for a few minutes.

While the young editor was talking ex-Mayor Quincy eyed him seriously.

The conference resumed deliberations after McMasters had vanished and another search light was directed up and down the State, but not a candidate anywhere to be found.

Ex-Mayor John H. McNamee's declaration was made known by mental telepathy. Ex-Mayor Nathan Matthews is out of town. He could not listen to the suggestion.

Senator George A. Schofield of Ipswich had the congressional bug in his bonnet and said nay as to the governorship.

James B. Carroll is too busy practising law up in Springfield, and Ex-Mayor Philip J. O'Connell of Worcester could not think of going on any end of the ticket.

After exhausting the list of available there was still a glimmer of hope left, and it was found in the thought that it would be a good idea to stampede the convention. For this task Henry M. Whitney is being suggested, but he had sufficient experience in the Douglas-Thayer controversy to keep out of the fight.

Whitney Still Firm.

Whitney refuses to have anything to do with the nomination, but there is still a chance to bring forth John B. Thayer as the stampeder.

The sum and substance of the meeting is that the anti-Moran men are awaiting the result of the primaries on September 25 and 26, and if a sufficient number of unpledged delegates are named then the missionary work to make them see the light will begin in dead earnest. Those present at the meeting were John A. Sullivan, Josiah Quincy, Arthur Lyman, Edward L. Arnold of Lawrence, Nicholas J. Sterett of Worcester and J. C. Burke of Lowell.

Mayor Coughlin of Fall River refused to attend the conference, as he is favorable to Moran.

PAY RAISED FOR 8,000.

WAREHOUSES TO STORE COTTON

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 14.—It is said by officials of the Texas Farmers' Union at the State headquarters in Dallas that in Texas there will be ready within a few weeks about 200 cotton warehouses. In these it is intended to store a large part of the cotton crop of the State, to furnish a steady and level supply to buyers, and especially for the direct selling to spinners and weavers.

The advantage for the warehouse is said to be that a reasonable advance in money will be made to any farmer who is unable to carry his crop without financial assistance.

Begs Lynn Police to Give Her Through Boston American Information About Boy She Abandoned in 1904.

LYNN, Sept. 14. Through the receipt of a letter in a feminine hand the Lynn police are to-day hopeful of solving the mystery surrounding the abandonment two years ago in this city of a pretty baby boy, left sitting in a baby carriage in front of Goddard's dry goods store, on the corner of a Market and Andrew streets, two years ago. Passersby had noticed that the child was crying for its mamma, but presuming that the mother was attending a bargain sale, patted the baby's cheek and passed on.

After nearly three hours had elapsed and the restless babe still cried, one of the store hands wheeled the carriage inside and notified the Lynn police. Later the baby was turned over to Matron Kate Jilson and INVERNESS, Scotland, Sept. 14.—James Henry Smith and Mrs. Rhinelander Stewart were married last evening at Phoness Lodge, near Newtonmore. Rev. Mr. Anderson, parish minister of Alvie, Inverness Shire, in whose church the banns were proclaimed last Sunday, officiated. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom left on an automobile honeymoon trip to Edinburgh.

James Henry Smith, the New York society man and broker, held the distinction of being probably the richest bachelor in the world. His bride, the divorced wife of William Rhinelander Stewart, is well known in New York and Baltimore society. Their close friends have been expecting the marriage, but it was fondly hoped by society that they would wed in New York.

UNITED FRUIT LINER NOW 7 DAYS OVERDUE

Seven days overdue to-day, still there has been received no word from the United Fruit Company steamer Brewster, which was sailing in the Caribbean when the hurricane struck several days ago. The officials of the company have the gravest fears for the safety of their ship and the fifty-five officers and crew who were aboard. The fact that the steamer went on her voyage to Jamaica comparatively light has given rise to the belief that possibly she may be floating aimlessly about the sea, having in some way been disabled. All efforts to locate the missing boat are being made.

Another fruiter is overdue in the Matanzas, which was due at Port Antonio from Baltimore last Monday. She is a Norwegian boat, somewhat smaller than the Brewster.

WORCESTER INAUGURATES INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE WITH CHEERS

Leading Citizens of City Perfect Its Organization on Spot Where Republican Party in Massachusetts Was Born.

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, Sept. 14.—In the historic old Bay State Hotel, where that famous conference was held years ago which led to the birth to the first Republican organization of Massachusetts, the Worcester branch of the Independence League of Massachusetts was organized this night. It is no exaggeration to say that no political movement of recent years ever received such a welcome from one of the large cities of the State as that greeted the Independence League by the best of the Commonwealth. No brass bands, no extravagant advertising, no star orators or professional politicians boomed the purpose of the organization.

It was simply a turning out of those interested in the betterment of municipal, political and legislative. At the meeting in the public parlor of the hotel, the formal work of organization was carried on. On account of the meeting of several societies, it was impossible for a number of the members to attend the regular meeting, but they were present at a subsequent session, at which the work of the previous meeting was ratified and the board.

The Worcester League starts off with a membership of sixty-four. A large number who have signified an intention of signing the roll will be seen by the enrolled members right away and it is expected that within a week the membership will have reached at least 200.

Delegates Chosen.

William Crosbie, one of the best known public spirited citizens of Worcester, was elected president of the temporary organization. He was for years one of the prominent men of the local army of organized labor, and has held many offices of influence and responsibility in labor organizations. For several years he has conducted a large painting business. James S. Noonan was elected secretary of the League. Every one knows Mr. Noonan in Worcester. He is famous for his independence in politics, for his able writings in behalf of public questions and for the determined way in which he has fought for principles here on more than one occasion.

It was voted to complete the temporary organization by the election of an executive committee, to consist of the president and secretary, together with F. M. Dunphy, Anson A. Reed and James Murdock.

After considerable discussion it was voted that inasmuch as the league is now 250 but little time remains for doing outstanding work before the State convention, September 22, only two delegates be sent to the convention. It was the unanimous sentiment that President Crosby and Secretary Noonan should go to the delegates. They were empowered, but an expression of opinion from everyone present at the meeting showed that John B. Moran was the choice of the League for Governor, and four of the speakers expressed themselves as being strongly in favor of the indorsement of Mr. Moran.

Sentiment for Moran.

As evidence of the depth of the feeling for Moran, one of the signers of the roll said he would have his name stricken from the list if he was not sure the representatives of the league would favor the nomination of Mr. Moran. One of those present at the meeting refused to sign the roll, and made the following statement:

"I have affiliated with the Republican party for many years, and I suppose that, if I have become so imbued with the conservatism that it comes hard for me to break away completely. But I think I ought to say, in justice to myself and as your due, that I am for Moran for Governor. I think that the time is at hand when some of his radical stamp are needed to change the current practices at the State House.

"I shall vote for Moran, and I indorse every principle of the league, but I want time to weigh it in my mind before putting my signature to the roll. It is a matter of conscience with me. I believe I shall come into it when I have pinched up a little more courage, and I know a great many Republicans who feel just the same as I do. If we get started there will be a whole lot of us, and I am strongly inclined to think we will get started very soon."

In taking up the principles of the league, one by one, President Crosbie explained their meaning as he interpreted them. He said that the league was just the thing for every man, the wage-earner, employer, dealer, employee, Republican or Democrat, should join and work to organize.

"I am glad this league has come here," he said. "It should have come before. It is needed, not only in Worcester and the State, but in the nation. I look upon it as the offer of the way out of our political bondage. I want to see the people of Worcester who have been condemning the trusts and the public service corporations and who have cursed them for their own ends now come forward and practice what they preach by joining hands with us in the Independence League. I am a Democrat and have always been a true one, but I want to see this league grow into a great party. I believe it is the beginning of a better party and I receive it with open arms. Its principles ring true, and I believe they are true. If they are false, then the hope of a better future in the world of politics is a delusion. With the same spirit that actuated us when we started out to make the trades unions strong and worthy, we should all push this league."

George Hall, who was been the foremost single taxer of Worcester and is a student of economic questions, gave an academic turn to the discussion of the platform by explaining in detail the technical features of the different planks. He was applauded heartily. Mr. Reed of the executive committee extolled the league as a practical demonstration of the very principles for which he and many others in Worcester have been contending for years.

"The First Bold Step."

"It is the first bold, courageous step against the tyranny of the party bosses that has been taken for years, which has the earmarks of sincerity of purpose," he said.

The meeting in the public parlor lasted from 8 until nearly 11. It was enthusiastic and spirited from start to finish. It was voted to adjourn subject to the call of the chair. Every member was given a batch of membership cards and application blanks and instructed to pass them out among his friends who are sincere in their belief that the rule of graft and the lobby should be cut short.

President Crosbie warned the members that good words for the cause were all right, but good deeds were more efficient. Secretary Noonan impressed upon the signers of the roll the importance of the step they had taken and urged them to report to him as frequently as possible how the good work was progressing.

It was unanimously voted that the secretary be instructed to correspond with the State executive committee and make arrangements for a public meeting in the near future, with speakers of well-known reputation to deliver addresses on the purposes of the League.

Words of hope were expressed in several of the speeches that the ticket of the League in New York, just nominated at the State convention, would be successful and that William R. Hearst would be the next Governor of the Empire State.

DANVERS VOTERS ENTHUSIASTIC AND WILL FORM LEAGUE

DANVERS, Sept. 14.—A branch of the Independence League is being formed at this place, and there is much enthusiasm among the people because of an opportunity to join an organization of this character.

A public meeting will be held in the Town Hall on next Tuesday evening, when the organization will be perfected. The movement is in the hands of Charles J. Murray of No. 10 Bell street, who has already enrolled a large membership.

TO PROTEST REPORT ON CITY LIGHTING

At a meeting of representatives of the Cambridge branch of the Independence League last evening, it was decided that the organization would join with the Wage Earners' Club and the Municipal Ownership League of that city in a public meeting early next week to protest against the report of the City Council, which it was declared that municipal lighting was impracticable.

LEAGUE MOVEMENT SWEEPING STATE

The Independence League movement is sweeping the State. Organizations are being formed in every section and the men who are active in the work report to State headquarters in the Winthrop building, No. 7 Water street, Boston, that unusual enthusiasm prevails.

Some of the organizations have sprung from a handful of members at the beginning to more than 100 within a week. The fact that the Independence League will hold a convention, at which a ticket will be nominated, in Faneuil hall, on Saturday, September 22, has served to stimulate the interest of the people, who are opposed to graft in all its phases, in the movement.

H. J. Forde, secretary of the Everett branch, writes to headquarters that he will have a meeting on Tuesday evening next at Glendale square, which promises to be largely attended. The Holyoke organization is booming. At Milford on next Tuesday evening a meeting will be held in the upper Central Labor hall, at which E. Gerry Brown, chairman of the committee of fifteen of the Wage Earners' Club, and a member of the Independence League executive committee, will speak. William F. Haley, secretary of the Milford Central Labor Union, is working to build up this organization.

Arrangements are being made for a meeting at Taunton next Wednesday evening. Thomas Hunston, who is one of the leading workers in this league, reported at State headquarters that his branch in that city would soon have a hundred members. A similar report was made by Secretary Henry J. Miner of the branch organization at North Attleboro.

WARD 20 WILL SEND FULL DELEGATION TO LEAGUE CONVENTION

A branch of the Independence League was formed last evening in Ward Twenty of this city at an enthusiastic meeting held in Rhoda hall, Bowdoin square. Several speeches were made in which the orators showed their earnestness and their intense interest in the movement.

The organization was made permanent, with Edward J. Finnegan as president, H. T. Allen vice-president, and Clarence H. Ochs secretary and treasurer. Mr. Allen opened the meeting by making a statement of the object of the Independence League. Addresses were made by Ex-Pub Commissioner Jack Pickersgill, Timothy Shea, Mr. Barry and Ernest L. Jackson.

Mr. Jackson said that this was the first organization of a political character with which he had ever become connected, because of the character of political parties in general. He thought that this organization possessed merit, and would bend every energy to help it along.

Mr. Finnegan and Mr. Allen said that they were assured from what they had heard of the sentiment in that section of the city that the Ward Twenty branch of the organization would be one of the strongest in the city and would have its full complement of delegates at the State convention.

CHEERS START OFF LEAGUE IN REVERE

The first permanent organization of an Independence League in Revere was formed last night in Parker Hall, Beach street, and was one of the most enthusiastic organization meetings which have been held to-date.

CHARLES D. GARBUTT.
President Revere Independence League

State Secretary J. F. Davis called the meeting to order, and suggested a permanent organization, and Charles D. Garbutt, chairman of Precinct 1, citizens' town committee, was elected president and George W. Murphy secretary.

Mr. Garbutt then introduced Secretary Davis, who defined the principles of the organization, which received great applause. President Garbutt and Henry J. Hitchborn also addressed the members.

Secretary Davis said in part:

"To-day we find the Republican and Democratic parties alike. Men of both parties have tried for independence and for less corporation control without success.

"The Independence League is not a new organization, but was founded to furnish a permanent, progressive, independent party wholly free from corporation control.

"The principles of the Independence League are the principles of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party, and the purposes are, in the words of Jefferson, the greatest good for the greatest number, and in the words of Lincoln, a government of the people, by the people and for the people. It is a non-partisan organization, and only by joining together can we gain any notes and victory at the polls.

"The leaders of the two great parties who have the interests of the party at heart are in the minority and have no say or voice in the control, because it is in the hands of the corporations.

"It is a fact that there was not a bill introduced and heard before the committees of the Massachusetts legislature where the people and the corporations were of contrary minds that the committee did not report in favor of the lobby and the corporations. The sliding scale gas bill and the overtime bill are illustrations of this fact.

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE

Untold Suffering and Constant Misery—Awful Sight From That Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Commenced at Top of his Head and Covered Entire Body.

MOTHER PRAISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint, Infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for several months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering his whole body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery, in fact, there was nothing we would not have done to have given him relief. The family doctor seemed to be wholly incapable of coping with the case, and after using large amounts of his, which resulted in no benefit to the child, we sent to Mason, Ill., to a druggist and got a full set of the Cuticura Remedies, and applied as per directions, and he began to improve immediately, and in about three or four days began to show a brighter gift and really laughed for the first time in a year. In about ninety days he was fully recovered, with the exception of a rough skin, which is gradually disappearing, and eventually will be replaced by a healthy one.

"Praise for the Cuticura Remedies has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good that we could say in their favor, for they certainly saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld, prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Maebelle Lyon, 1826 Appleton Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

COMPLETE TREATMENT $1

Complete external and internal treatment for every humor, consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may now be had for one dollar. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, and scaly humors, scoramas, rashes, and irritations, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Send for "The Great Skin Book."

We can love a man, no matter how small his salary, but unless he is earning $30 a week, he need not expect us to name the wedding day.— Miss Jennie Ellis, president of "The Thirty-Dollar Club," to Eleanor Ames.

"$30 PER, OR YOU NEEDN'T COME AROUND," SAY MALDEN GIRLS

Ten Pretty Maidens Form Club to Discourage Wife Seekers With Nothing but Prospects.

Say it May Put End to Dream About Love in a Cottage, but it Furnishes the Cottage.

By Eleanor Ames.

WHEN Cupid takes a serious aim at the hearts of Malden girls he must tip his arrows with gold.

The "Thirty-Dollar Club," recently formed by the ten sensible and lovable girls, has dealth a death blow to marriage with love and kisses for support.

As Miss Jennie Ellis, the president of the club, expresses it: "We can love a man, no matter how small his salary, but unless he is earning $30 a week, he need not expect us to name the wedding day."

Although the "Thirty-Dollar Club" has been in existence only six days, it has already met with such feminine approval that a dozen applications for membership are on the waiting list and each mail brings cheering letters from girls who, though not candidates, heartily approve and applaud the courage of the promoters.

Everett, Medford, Melrose and Wakefield each has representation in this most practical and unique organization, which aims to solve the problem of marital unhappiness and lessen the divorce evil.

"We believe," said Miss Ellis, when I saw her at her pleasant home on Page street, Malden, "that almost half the trouble that young married people experience is caused by lack of money. Expenses grow and bills come in and wants increase and there is no money to meet the demand.

Then Quarrels Begin.

"The home becomes fretful, hubby gets discouraged, there's a quarrel, and things go from bad to worse."

The "Thirty-Dollar Club" is mercenary only so far as common sense and a practical knowledge of life makes it so.

None of the members demand great wealth or untold luxuries.

But each does demand that when a man asks her to share his lot and home, he shall really have the home to offer her.

"The elopements of so many young people, who had no money to live on, and had to depend on their parents for support, was what actually started the club," said Miss Ellis. "Why, lots of girls and boys have run away and got married when they didn't have money enough for one to live on, let alone two.

"I know cases where the man had only seven or eight dollars a week or even less. How could he support a wife on that?

"So she went to his home or he to hers, and neither arrangement was happy."

Then the club disapproves elopements?"

Miss Ellis blushed and laughed. So did her friend, Miss Dora Wendell, treasurer of the club.

"Well, no," she admitted. "Not if the $30 is all right. I believe in eloping if you can't get the man you love any other way. When you leave home be sure that he can provide some other place for you to be comfortable.

Oldest Officer Twenty.

There are but three officers of the club at present, but more will be created as the need arises.

The third dignitary and the busiest of the trio, is Miss Ethel Marshall of Elm street, Everett, who, as secretary, has to answer the flood of letters poured upon her, besides fulfilling her duties as bookkeeper at the Malden Electric Company.

The ages of the officers range from eighteen to twenty, not one having yet celebrated her legal majority.

At least four are engaged, the finger of matrimonial suspicion is pointed at two or three others, and one frankly acknowledges that she is to be married this Fall, and the man earns over $30," she proudly asserts.

The question of how to find out about a young man's financial eligibility is puzzling some of the members.

"Have we got to ask a man how much he earns the minute he whispers love in our ears?" demanded one girl.

"Sure there's a will there's a way!" quoted Miss Wendell. "I'll wager that I'd find out anything I wanted to."

"It puts an end to that fond dream about 'love in a cottage,'" sighed another sentimental member.

"It furnishes the cottage, anyway," retorted Miss Ellis.

Perhaps more than any other member, Miss Ellis knows the practical cost of living, for she is the acknowledged housekeeper of the family.

Cost of Living Doubled.

"It costs just double that it used to for living expenses," she declared. "The girls of to-day can't take their mothers for examples when they marry for love alone."

The modern girl wants so many things that cost money.

Probably she has been used to them, and if she can't have them, she feels abused.

If she has been earning her own money, the chances are that she has lived at home and hasn't paid very much if any board.

She has had her money for her clothes, and she hasn't known what it has cost to run the house.

The "Thirty-Dollar Club" is not at all convinced.

It requires that all its members shall be versed as cooks, housekeepers and homemakers, and know how to make the best possible use of that $30.

"Every girl ought to know how to keep house, cook and sew, even if she never has to," is the sentiment of President Ellis, who has a level head and keen mind.

Another evidence of fairness on the part of the club members is that there is an agreement that if a man is earning $25 or a high a salary as he can earn, he shall be made happy by the bride of his choice.

Must Have a Starter.

But like his $30 brother, he must be free from debt and vicious habits, and have money enough saved to pay the minister and furnish some sort of a home.

"This living from pay day to pay day is too much worry," says Miss Ellis, "and every young couple should have something every week."

The meetings of the "Thirty-Dollar Club" will be social, with occasionally a lecture on the men.

Each member will be assessed a small sum and the treasury will be called upon for wedding gifts for the members.

"You see, we're not afraid it will make us old maids," laughed Miss Wendell.

Rules of Thirty Dollar Club Girls.

"Any man proposing marriage to any member of this club must have a minimum salary of $30 per week and must be able to provide a suitable home for his intended wife.

"Members of this club must be able to cook, sew and keep house before accepting a proposal of marriage.

"This club shall meet from time to time at the homes of members of the organization. Members shall teach each other sewing, cookin good housekeeping hints and economy.

"Persons becoming members of this club must pledge themselves in agreement with the foregoing articles."

Articles from the constitution of the Malden girls' "Thirty Dollar a Week Club."

PRIEST SAYS FUNERALS MUST BE DECOROUS

Objects to Cabmen Smoking and Gossiping During Services.

The Rev. Father Francis J. Butler of St. Leo's Church, Dorchester, makes the carelessness of hack drivers who loiter about the sidewalks and gossip or smoke during the funeral services in the church the subject of a parochial circular. At the same time Father Butler offers a number of suggestions to his parishioners as to the proper method of conducting a funeral. Numerous other things make the epistle necessary, in the opinion of Father Butler. The document is as follows:

"We have had one funeral at the church recently, and only one, that, in the mind of the pastor, was properly conducted. This funeral was in charge of a non-Catholic undertaker. Our local undertaker has assured the pastor that he will henceforth conduct all funerals in the way approved by the pastor.

"The fact upon which the pastor insists most strongly is that while the funeral mass is being celebrated in the church the hack drivers remain in their proper places, that is, on the seats of their carriage, and abstain from smoking and gossiping.

"In order that the undertaker may succeed in enforcing this requirement, and that all may be done properly, the pastor requests that the parishioners observe the following suggestions whenever a funeral occurs:

"1. Announce that the funeral will be private.

"2. Invite relatives and friends generally to attend the requiem services in the church.

"3. Hire all the carriages through the undertaker, so that he may have perfect control over the drivers.

"4. In the case of ordinary private citizens, it would seem that ten carriages would constitute a proper funeral procession to follow the body to the end of mass. None should go to the graveyard but those invited by the bereaved family. The last act of the sorrowful parting from our friends should be witnessed by only a sympathetic few.

"5. If many floggers are sent by sympathising friends, let the undertaker carry into the church only the small piece to be placed on the casket.

"6. Do not request that some semi-religious song be sung at the end of the mass. It detracts from the solemnity and propriety of the church's funeral service."

FOUR-MASTER GOES ASHORE

CHATHAM, Sept. 14.—A four-masted schooner, bound south, came ashore at 3 a. m. to-day on the outer bar of North Beach, two miles north of the life-saving station.

Captain H. F. Doane and crew of the Old Harbor life-saving station and Captain Charles and crew of the Orleans station went to her assistance. Before the life-savers could get aboard the schooner floated off the bar and started south. Her pumping engines were heard working, and it is thought that she is leaking.

The name of the schooner is not known.

Twenty-seven delegates of the National Mule Spinners' Union met in annual session at Lawrence Encampment Hall yesterday.

FIGHT STARTS IN CONTEST OF CASSIER WILL

Brother Files Objections in Behalf of Self, Sister and Wife No. 1.

Objections were filed to the testament made in 1896 of Louis Cassier, formerly of Boston, a publisher, reputed to be wealthy, but recently estimated at $11,700, who died in New York yesterday, by his brother, Adolph Cassier of East Dedham, Mass., and his half-sister, Mrs. Helena Hellman of Boston. They allege that the document did not represent the voluntary act of the testator in that he had been unduly influenced.

Adolph Cassier and Mrs. Hellman practically made common cause with Mrs. Olive Gertrude Spooner Severns, of Scituate, Mass., whose maiden name was Spooner, who asserts she was the wife of the publisher. She alleges he deserted her twelve years ago for Mrs. Agnes N. Cassier, who remains in possession of the family home near Bridgewater, Ct.

Mrs. Cassier, of Massachusetts, does not become an active participant in the proceedings, although the final paragraph of the petition alleges that the will be null and void because no provision was made for the legal wife of the testator. She did not appear in person, nor did either of the contestants. Papers in the case were filed by a member of the law firm of Wellman & Booth.

It had been promised by attorneys for the will that there would be a sensation if Mrs. Cassier No. 1 appeared.

Mrs. Smith of Wellman & Booth says that he and his partners were in a general way looking after the interests of the alleged first wife, but that Ley could not say she had retained them. If the kin succeed in breaking the will she will have to be given $5000 in addition to her share of the interest. There is talk of her appearing later as an opponent of the will.

ARBITRATING LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE TO-DAY

Committee Is Chosen by Men and Metropolitan Steamship Company.

The strike of the longshoremen employed on the docks of the Metropolitan Steamship Company was to-day submitted to arbitration, the decision being left entirely in the hands of a committee consisting of John Reagan, general secretary of District Assembly 30, Knights of Labor, chosen by the strikers; President John F. Crocker of the Chamber of Commerce, selected by the Metropolitan Company, and C. F. Lee, general passenger agent of the Boston & Maine, who was decided upon by the other two.

The first conference of the committee begins at 1 p. m. to-day, in the committee room of the Chamber of Commerce. The evidence in interest of the company will be given by G. W. Abeey, general manager of the Metropolitan Steamship Company, Calvin Austin, president of the Eastern Steamship Company and Mr. Delap, a boss stevedore employed by the Metropolitan.

Representing the claims of the long shoremen are John R. Dalton, master worker of Metropolitan Assembly, Jeremiah Fitzgerald, Jerhiah Cullinane, Michael Foley and John Hagerty of the stevedore's union, local.

The conference is the result of a proposition made by the New England Civic Federation, and which was accepted by the strikers. Along the water front to-day it was the general opinion that the differences between the company and its employes would be speedily adjusted.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL OF GREATER BOSTON '96

In accordance with the action of the Colorado Springs convention, the eight hour assessment on the members of the International Typographical Union in Boston and other cities will be reduced from 10 to 5 per cent on October 1. Beginning with that date, all assessments collected under authority of the I. T. U. must be sent to the international secretary-treasurer, and will be disbursed at the direction of the executive committee.

"The eight-hour day has been established throughout the jurisdiction of the International Union," states the issue of the Typographical Journal just out, "but there are some 4,500 members affected by the strike who must be cared for until they can find employment. The strike will be declared off where the normal number of men are working. This will enable the officers to conduct a more energetic and effective campaign in cities where opposition is still encountered, but may necessitate the continuance of an assessment for some time, as the full force and strength of the International Typographical Union will be directed against those who are still opposing the eight-hour day and the union shop."

SOMERVILLE CLUB MEETS.

The Somerville Wage Earners' Club will hold the first of a series of open meetings in Lower Union Hall, Union square, at 8 o'clock. Prominent speakers from Boston, Cambridge and Somerville will appear, particular attention being given to the opposition of Senator Stevens and most of the Somerville Representatives in the last General Court to the bills indorsed by the State Branch, A. F. of L., especially the overtime, picketing and public opinion bills. The meeting is open to all wage earners.

STRIKE-BREAKERS TURN BACK.

Business Agent Powers, of Boston Machinists' Lodge 264, reported at last night's meeting that he had succeeded in turning back a number of men who arrived from Providence yesterday to take the places of the Lynn strikers. The local union is also on the lookout for a delegation of strike-breakers from Worcester. Very favorable reports of the Lynn strike were received last night by the Boston lodge.

BARBERS' CONVENTION.

Arrangements have been completed for the State convention of Barbers' Unions to be held in Boston, October 7 and 8. The sessions will be in Faneuil Hall, and over 200 delegates are expected. All the cities in the State have already elected delegates, and more than 100 town. Sunday evening, October 7, the visiting delegates will be given a banquet by the Boston Barbers' Union at the Quincy House.

LABOR NOTES.

Garment Workers' District Council No. 9 received an application from a Howard street merchant tailor for the label at last night's meeting. Trade was reported dull.

The Ward Wage Earners' Club met last night and decided to meet again next Tuesday night at Wells Memorial Building.

The Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union holds an important meeting tonight at Wells Memorial Building.

George W. Patterson will represent Carriage and Wagon Workers' Union No. 7 as delegate to the international convention, which opens in Buffalo October 11.

20 POLICEMEN CLOSE BIG CHICAGO STORE

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Building Commissioner Bartsen, with twenty policemen, yesterday closed the Boston Store, one of the biggest department stores, for violations of the drastic building ordinances. For two hours the police turned thousands of customers away.

Manager Hart went to the Mayor's office for redress and was arrested. Promises to immediately install fire escapes and a standpipe and new places of exit secured his freedom.

SINGING TOO BAD FOR JAIL.

OSWEGO, Kan., Sept. 14.—The singing of Mary Weather was too bad, even for the county jail, and Mary's term of imprisonment has been cut short, on the condition that she and her alleged voice leave the county.

CLOTHING ON CREDIT

THE SYSTEM

A system of selling clothing on Credit which has stood the test of years with thousands of customers must possess elements of merit and strength. From those who have taken advantage of the system nothing but praise is heard, and their continued patronage is surely an evidence of their appreciation.

Many of our customers have traded at other credit houses, but have opened accounts with us because of our superior grade of goods, lower prices and liberality of our terms.

We retain our customers and get all the new ones we can. This policy of giving satisfaction has resulted in doubling our business; and we propose to continue on these lines.

THE STOCK

It is with special pride and interest that we speak of our stock for this season. Never before has the assortment included so many novelties and fashionable clothing. The department of ladies' clothing is notable in many respects. The style, cut and lines of the coats, wraps and skirts are just the swellest and latest that the manufacturers are selling. The millinery display is one of beauty and style. The latest creations and copies of Parisian and New York styles are here, both in number and variety.

The men's department of clothing, hats and shoes is just crowded with the best and latest of this season's efforts, and a man can get any grade of suit or overcoat that he desires. All departments are now open for the most critical inspection.

ONLY 3 DAYS MORE TO SEE WONDERLAND

Lots of Amusement for Pleasure Seekers Until Lights Go Out Sunday Night.

A LOVING CUP SURPRISE

King Carnival's reign at Wonderland will come to a close on Sunday night, and to-morrow evening Reverens, Rex, will hold forth with his court in the very centre of the electric city, to finally inspect the loyal subjects of his domain.

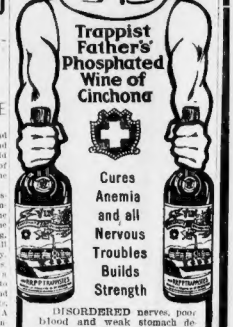
To render the closing of a most successful fortnight's reign more notable, the management of Wonderland has engaged the famous Navassar Ladies' Band, and the concerts yesterday afternoon and evening, which met with great popular favor, will be repeated to-day, Saturday and Sunday. The band is composed of nearly fifty pieces. The ladies are all young and attractive, a fact that may possibly have something to do with the popularity of the band, and they are prettily costumed in cream skirts, a la militaire, and simple white blouses. A decided novelty was introduced last evening, when the costumes of the players were decorated with tiny electric lights.

As "Happy Hogan," Fred A. Bennett is making a decided hit with his new silver cornet, presented him by the members of the Salem Cadet Band. The two singing acts that go hand in hand with the band, by Miss Bessie Rosa and Master Johnnie Coakley, will be retained until the end of the season, as these little performers are proving to be two of the best free attractions that the Wonderland managers have ever provided. The high school horse and equestrian Russian bear continue to be favorites, especially with the little ones, and new wonders are unfolded to the gaze of Wonderland visitors every evening by Ryan's Electric Steam Scintillator.

A happy little incident, in which the general public did not participate, occurred last night at Wonderland. A few minutes before the closing hour a party of officers of the company swooped down upon D. S. McIsaak, the proprietor of the restaurant, and presented him with a magnificent solid silver loving cup.

Three days more of Wonderland, and then the barker's voice will be hushed, and Boston's greatest amusement resort will go into winter quarters and await the coming of gentle Spring.

BE STRONG



Cures Anemia and all Nervous Troubles Builds Strength

DISORDERED nerves, poor blood and weak stomach destroy health and pull down strength.

This famous medicinal wine, made by the Trappist Fathers at Oka, Canada, purifies the blood, cures nervous disorders, stimulates the digestion, and is a delicious, powerful, life-giving, strength-giving tonic.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

"First Aid" to the Bowels

WHEN Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Headache, Bad Breath, coated Tongue, Belching of Stomach, Gas, or any of these forerunners of Indigestion appear, Old Dr. Cascaret wants to be right on the spot in your pocket.

Dr. Cascaret guarantees to cure the most obstinate cases of Constipation and Indigestion, without discomfort or inconvenience.

His medicine does not gripe nor purge, but exercises naturally the muscles that line the walls of the Intestines and Bowels.

* * *

Want of Exercise weakens and relaxes the Bowel-Muscles, just as it weakens Arm and Leg muscles.

Old Dr. Cascaret goes directly after these Bowel-Muscles. He wakes them up just as a cold bath would wake up a lazy person.

Then he works them (through the nerves) till they get so strong from that Exercise that they don't need any more help to do their duty.

* * *

Heavy dinners, late suppers, whiskey, wine or beer drinking, nervous excitement, sudden exposure to cold or heat and a dozen other everyday likelihoods tire the Bowel-Muscles.

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

* * *

Little thin Cascaret Box, shaped so you don't notice its presence in purse or vest-pocket.

Contains six Candy tablets—Price Ten Cents a Box at any Druggist's.

Be sure you get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

"That's some fellow's pipe dream," said A. H. Soden, this morning when he was asked for the details concerning a reported sale of the Boston National Club.

"The first I knew of it I learned from the morning papers. There's absolutely nothing in it, and it's positively news to me," he concluded.

That looks strong enough to offset a rumor that at last the Boston National Club was about to change hands. John T. Brush was so busy in New York that he could not be seen from the back on account of the dust. He was gathering a few Gotham guns who are supposed to know a good thing in the baseball line, and they are to combine forces with a few of the local rooters in this city. The club was going to be purchased outright with the proceeds of this corporation. Fred Knowles, so the story went, was standing behind the squad, and was going to fill in the spaces with a thick wad he has had in the press for a couple of weeks.

Since coming home the Tenneyites have lost four straight games, and it's about time that they got on to themselves and showed Hub fandom that they have some ability on the diamond. Three games were dropped to the Giants, and the latter went off smiling. One game has already been lost to the Quakers, and if the locals don't do better than yesterday they will lose the two remaining contests to the Phillies.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Chick Stahl was busy with the wires this morning when he had the Worcester magnates engaged in a line of talk concerning Lord and Chief Bonjorne. Chick wants to get hold of them soon to-morrow if it is possible, so that he can have a positive answer as to whether it is a shame to take a game away from a team near the top which may be all-powerful in the pennant race by-and-by. His regulars rank back like a National League team, and stand that way here not long ago. Pierce, Harden and Ferris repairing in the grand stand daily, both hoping that they may be taken West with the squad. Tom Hughes thinneth not as tired they sent him home to Syracuse. He complained that his arm is a bad wing, but it has since been settled that Hill is going to be married within a few weeks, and that's the cause of his disparage. Freddie Parent is decidedly lame and will lay off for the rest of the season as soon as some of the youngsters on the list show up. Grace will probably return to-morrow.

INTERCITY RACES AT PEABODY

The Lynn Driving Club have completed every arrangement for the entertainment of their guests, the members of the Dorchester Club, at the intercity matinee to-morrow at the Peabody fair grounds. The half-mile track has been put in the best possible condition for the horses to make fast time in the nineteen races on the programme.

The committee on entertainment have decided that the Dorchesterites will be met on the depot and escorted to the clubhouse of the Lynn organization. After refreshments, automobiles are to be in waiting to carry the party to the track. At the conclusion of the afternoon sport all will repair to the clubhouse once more, where a luncheon will be served.

The rivalry of the track is bound to be intense. Lynn got a good drubbing in the intercity meeting at Franklin Field last year, and is making every effort to reverse the order of affairs in the Saturday contest against their doughty opponents.

"Bob" Durland is confident of carrying off the honors in the trot with Bin Con Axworthy over the Dorchester representative's home track. Of the six trotting events the Lynn party feel sure to pull off four heats.

By adding this they can be the victors of the day by losing the odd race in the thirteen pacing classes. Lynn will be disappointed if they fail to bend the sumitary up less than eight out of the number, which would make the total of the afternoon stand twelve for Lynn to seven for Dorchester. Needless to say, the members of the latter club laugh at the figures given by their antagonists.

TO HOLD BIG BOXING MEETS

The Haverhill Baseball and Athletic Club is going to hold big boxing meetings at their headquarters this Winter. The arena will have a seating capacity of 1,200. George Hill will be manager and matchmaker.

FIGHT PICTURES SHOW FOUL BLOW

By W. W. Naughton.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—A number of the rounds of the Gans-Nelson championship fight were reproduced in moving picture form at the Colonial Theatre last night for the benefit of the press representatives and friends of the stockholders in the venture. In all about a dozen rounds were shown.

The forty-second round, which is the concluding one of the bout, was thrown upon the screen for the benefit of the sports present and no argument as to the culpability of the foul blow which cost Nelson the decision. At the second showing of the round several who were in doubt as to the extent of Nelson's offense admitted that they could see no mistake about the punch which disabled Gans.

"It's a plain case of foul work right," said Jack O'Brien, who was among the spectators. "It was a left hand punch."

The exhibition was a horridly arranged affair, the details being far from complete. As a consequence the display was more what unsatisfactory. In one or two rounds the figures of the fighters were encouraged in a slight haze. This one of the Miles Brothers, who took the pictures, said was due to faulty printing. He said that all defects would be corrected before the pictures were placed on public exhibition.

Apart from the round which showed the foul blow the conclusion of the contest, the one which interested the crowd most was the eighth. In this Nelson fell to his knees during a mix-up in one of the corners, and there was a murmur of admiration at the Irish manner the determined Dane jumps to his feet again and faces his opponent.

The gentleman who acted as announcer explained before the final round was turned on that it was 7 o'clock in the evening when the pictures of that portion of the fight were taken. It was apparent that the sun was low when the fighters came forth for the finish, but still the movements of the men are as easy to follow in that round as in any of the others.

The last scene of all shows Gans with fog on the floor. Then the crowd attempts to enter the ring, but it is kept outside the ropes by a corps of gaily decked deputies who look too formidable to pass.

NELSON LETS OUT HOWL THAT HE WAS ROBBED

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—After Battling Nelson put up his $10,000 with the Chicago American for a return bout with Gans he talked with picturesque Hegewisch rhetoric. He let out a howl which must have been heard across Wolf Lake. Here it is in brief:

"Siler deliberately lobbed me.

"We protected ourselves against the whole world save Siler. We trusted him. It's always the fellow you think is right that throws you.

"Gans never broke his hand. The only thing broken about him is his head. That never will mend."

Both Nelson and his manager were in most bitter humor.

In detail Nelson told of the final blow delivered—"knockout" as he described it. "Foul" as Siler calls it.

"I hit Gans with a short arm left hook," said Nelson. "I struck with that side of the fist made by the thumb, hand and forefinger underlining. The blow was a quick and hard job, but it doesn't take much to knock out a man when you hit deliberately joined by Siler. The pictures will bear out everything I say. Any honest spectator will agree with me. All through the fight Gans fouled me. He pulled out my hair, butted and hit low. Siler never saw the knockout shot—he knew it himself—but claimed was foul. The fight pictures will vindicate me."

Nelson looked well and confident. The only mark to be seen was one beneath the eye, a puffed abrasion and a swollen ear.

AUTO SHOW SEPT. 9 TO 13

By J. C. KERRISON.

The dates of the annual automobile show of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association will be March 9 to 13, and even at this early date arrangements for the same are being completed. Although but little has been said regarding the show, applications for reservation have been coming into the office of the manager, and already a sufficient number of applications have been received to make the show a success. The fact that the independents will hold a show in New York in December has made no difference with the local organization, which is going along in the even tenor of its way. There is but little reason to expect a change from the usual program of affairs. There has been a rumor, an unfounded one at that, to the effect that there would be two shows in Boston next year. While the independent association is arranging for a show in New York, and perhaps in Chicago, there is no reason to believe that any effort will be made to hold an independent show here, and if such should be the case, it is not thought that there would be but one big show next year.

The entire Mechanics Building, including Paul Revere Hall, as well as Horticultural Hall, has been secured by the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, under whose auspices the show has been held each year. The show held here last March was generally conceded to be the largest, most complete and by far the most strikingly laid out show of the entire American circuit.

While the plans for decoration are not ready for publication, it has been given out that they will be of a most extraordinary and pleasing character, totally different from anything ever shown here.

Carl Fischer of Indianapolis is in this city looking after the affairs of his company and incidentally endeavoring to secure a location for the establishment of a branch factory of the Presto Light Tank Company. Mr. Fischer says his company realizing the needs of its eastern customers in more than ever inclined to erect a factory in or around Boston. If he can secure a suitable site this will be done work commencing as early as possible.

HARVARD SQUAD RESTS

It is probable that there will be no practice at Soldiers Field to-day, as both Captain Foster and Coach Reid will attend the soccer game at Locust street. Several of the men who are candidates for the Harvard eleven will accompany them.

The first of the week the men will go behind the inclosure, and only on occasional days will anyone be allowed to see what Reid has evolved during the Summer as his interpretation of the new football code.

Captain S. V. Morse of this year's Yale eleven was on hand and was taken on to the field by Coach Reid himself. He followed the movements of the Crimson men closely throughout.

Coach Daly had the quarterbacks in one corner again and showed them more of the forward pass, which already took better direction.

Big Barr, last year's freshman guard and kicker, is likely to have a good rival in Kennard, who had quite a session punting. The form was good, and aided by the wind the ball took some long flights.

ENGLISHMEN BEATEN.

FALL RIVER, Sept. 14.—The Athletic Association (Corinthian association football eleven of London, England, were defeated by the Fall River team yesterday afternoon, 2 to 0, in the presence of more than 6,000 football lovers from this city and surrounding cities.

SIDNEY BEATS PANTZ EASILY

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—In a fifteen round bout here last night between Kid Pantz and Fred Sidney, both of Boston, Sidney was given the decision.

In the three opening rounds it was plain that Sidney was the better man. In the fifth round the Kid Pantz on the seat to take the count. In the ninth round Pantz was on the mat twice, but finished the round like a whirlwind. In the fourteenth round Sidney had several chances to knock his man out, but failed to take advantage of his position.

Tailors vs. The People
On February, the 17, 1880, a celebrated case was being tried, the Six Little Tailors and the people of New England being the ones most interested in the result. The question involved as to whether the Six Little Tailors would continue giving greater values, better fitting garments, better treatment than any other tailor, was decided unanimously in their favor by the jury (the people), the verdict being the largest tailoring business in the world.

Beatrice Fairfax Says Frivolity, Lack of Attention to Duties, Gossip and Silly Conversation Are Serious

HANDICAPS FOR WOMEN IN BUSINESS

ALL RIGHT JACK! YOURE A JEWEL! MONDAY NIGHT THEN?
NOW THIS IS FOR YOU! HALLIE..
AND HE HAD PROMISED TO TAKE ME!
WHY! THE HOE RID THING!

THE BUSINESS GIRL HAS A RIGHT TO REASONABLE HOURS, ADEQUATE PAY AND KINDNESS, BUT SHE HAS NO RIGHT TO WASTE HER EMPLOYER'S TIME OVER THE TELEPHONE, OR BY FLIRTING OR GOSSIPING DURING BUSINESS HOURS

The Business Girl Must Give Strict Attention to Business if She Wants to Succeed Nowadays

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl seventeen years of age and have a position as stenographer. As I have charge of telephone orders, I usually have the habit of talking through the phone, which my employer calls flirting. Now, Miss Fairfax, will you kindly advise me what you think of it?

ANXIOUS READER.

HERE, girls, is a case which I regret to say is by no means an uncommon one.

Far too many girls are guilty of wasting their employer's time. They would not for one moment dream of stealing his money, but they think nothing of stealing his time, and in business time is money.

Your employer pays you for your services for a certain number of hours each day. During those hours your time and attention belong to him.

Every minute spent in joking with outsiders over the telephone or otherwise is time wasted.

You are not paid to flirt or joke with customers or fellow-employes; you are paid to do specific work, and your duty is to do it.

A great many girls enter upon a business career with the sole idea of having a little extra money with which to buy clothes and have a good time.

The girl who wants to succeed must have a higher idea of work than that. She must be earnest, painstaking and fair-minded to see both sides of the question.

She has the right to expect fair treatment from her employer, which means reasonable hours, adequate pay and kindness.

But in return she is bound to give her services to the best of her ability and to consider herself in honor bound to serve him faithfully.

Wasting his time in gossiping and flirting is not serving him faithfully nor living up to her share of the bargain.

The men who are flirting with you over the phone and helping you waste your employer's time will never give you a second thought.

They cannot amount to much, anyway, or they would not have time for nonsense in the middle of the day.

After your day's work is over have as much fun as you like. You have earned it and are entitled to it.

If you cannot make earnest, dutiful business women, you had better keep out of business altogether.

Put men and clothes and fun out of your mind during business hours.

Good Digestion and Fresh Air Are Woman's Best Cosmetics

The Skin Is Really a Reflection of General Physical Conditions of the Whole Body

By Dr. Ida Gradanes

THE complexion question seems to be of such vital importance to some that they constantly seek for something to improve it.

Such people make the mistake of thinking the skin a sort of enamel which can be retouched from the outside. The only difficulty they find is to get the right means for doing so.

They forget that the skin is intimately connected with the whole body, and that the skin is really the reflection of the general condition of the latter.

In anaemia, for instance, where the blood is in poor condition, the face is pale.

In gouty people the face is too red, while in those suffering from jaundice the skin is yellow. A healthy body has a healthy skin—hence a pretty complexion.

Important Functions

The skin plays a very important part in the economy of the human body, and it is perhaps interesting for us to know something about it without regard to the complexion problem.

The skin protects all the organs of the body, serves as the means of sensation, and regulates the temperature of the body.

It also has the property of receiving nourishment for the hair and a lubricant for its own surface. It excretes a good deal of impurities daily from the body. It possesses the power of absorption.

The skin, when studied under a microscope, is found to be composed of seven different layers of cells. I will name here only the most important ones.

The outer layer is composed of scales that are forever changing, casting off the outermost and being replenished from the lower ones.

The fourth layer of cells are those that contain pigments which are responsible for the color of a person, the thicker the pigment means the darker the individual. Negroes have a perfectly black layer of these cells, and this makes the skin deep difference between negroes and white people.

The very lowest cells of the skin have at the blood vessels, nerve supply and glands, which manufacture the different fluids like sweat, and the ones mentioned above.

Wards Off Disease

The skin and all the structures imbedded in it are generously supplied by tiny blood vessels. There is also a nerve supply all through the skin. Both the little arteries, as well as the nerves are, of course, branches of the general gigantic blood and nerve systems, and any manipulation of the skin reacts through the nerve and blood supply on the centres of the same.

Should the skin be suddenly chilled, it becomes white, because the blood of the skin arteries is driven to the deeper organs. If you get, for instance, the skin cooled off while the body is in fever, and it has an influence in reducing the heat of the body. You strike a finger and feel the pain, which means that the tip of your finger has a direct communication with the brain, for the pain is felt there and only transmitted to the finger. The shock of the stroke travels up through the nerve-ending and branches to the centre of sensation and the message comes back as pain in the end of your finger.

Very Absorbent

The nervous connection between the skin and central nervous system serves not only the purpose of sense and touch, but is of great value in certain treatment of nervous diseases. The facial expression is certainly due to the brain, which controls the various muscles implicated in it.

The skin dissolves moisture, and under certain circumstances drugs are rubbed into the skin and absorbed by it. The skin helps the kidneys get rid of the impurities of the body, and in many cases of kidney trouble the skin comes in as a savior for the time being. It nourishes the roots of the hair, therefore stimulating the skin, makes the glands work, and a more beautiful growth of hair is the result.

Massaging the face for the purpose of beautifying the complexion often meets with success, not because of the mechanical action on the skin as much as the stimulation of the nerves of the skin, which causes the nerve centres to work more actively.

The whole body if kept in good condition must of necessity act favorably on the skin. Perfect digestion and lots of fresh air are the very best of cosmetics.

Write Your Love Story on a Postal and Win a Prize

THE Post-Card Editor is being fairly flooded with love stories. All New England apparently wants to compete for the five cash prizes, aggregating $10, before this interesting contest ends.

Hurry up and get in the race. You have until midnight to-morrow to send along your postal. Winners will be announced next Tuesday. Some one will win the awards, and it might as well be you.

Tell how you met your sweetheart. Tell where you met her. If you can draw, illustrate it. Artists and authors will receive equal consideration.

Be sure to write or draw on a postcard only. Letters will not be opened in this contest. If you draw, use black ink, not blue, and do outline work only.

Address Post-Card Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street. Send your post-card to-day. Be early in the field for one of the prizes.

The best love story of the most unique or romantic meeting will receive a prize of $5. The next will be awarded a prize of $2, and to the three next best $1 each will be awarded.

WHY NOT?

I MET her first when going to school
One bright and sunny morning;
Though both were young, full well we knew
That then our love was dawning.
But, ah! where dwelt that little spark
A fire of love is burning!

How sweet's the thought that memory brings
Where love's lane bath no turning.
I know her five and she knows mine
From childhood days till now;
And so we hope that soon the knot
Is tied by marriage vow.

AT A FAIR

AT a fair in 1902 I asked a gentleman if he would kindly take a chance on a gold watch. His answer was, "Certainly, if you will give me a chance to escort you home." I consented, and we were married two years later.

LONG DISTANCE LOVE

A YOUNG man saw my name in a small magazine and wrote to me, requesting me to correspond with him, to which I agreed. In the fourth letter he said, "I wonder if still be my little correspondent, and I answered, "Yes." So we have been sweethearts, and no two truer to each other in the wide world, for over four years. We live thousands of miles apart, but some day we shall meet—"not yet, but soon."

A BUNCH OF VIOLETS

THIRTEEN years ago my business called me to Boston every day. On the car I took each morning was a bright, courteous conductor, who looked to be sensible. One day I had a cluster of fragrant English violets, which I divided with him. Then opened a friendship which we have enjoyed together for twelve years as husband and wife, and it is my sincere wish that it may last always.

A NARROW ESCAPE

ONE day as I was strolling through the woods a bullet whizzed by my ear. From sheer fright I fell. Presently a young man came running up to me thinking he had landed a deer. Explanations followed. Now I am dear for life. I think it was an odd way to win a husband.

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

REGARD MOTHER'S WISH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A few weeks ago I met a young lady, whom I have fallen in love with. She returns my affection, but her mother forbids my calling at the house; she has apparently taken a personal dislike to me. The young lady insists on my calling. I do not wish to offend the mother, and yet I do not care to lose the girl I love.

G. W.

YOU will have to regard the mother's wishes in the matter. It is too bad to have to give up calling on the girl, but the mother is the mistress of the house, and if she objects to your calling on her daughter there is nothing to do but accede to her wishes.

Freckles, Liver Spots, Moth Patches

THESE unsightly blemishes which completely disfigure the complexion are produced by various causes, although all are pigmentary discolorations.

The unfortunate victim is very often made the butt of ridicule by friends who do not know the cause, or how to remove the cause.

There is no reason for continued suffering, because the scientific treatments given at the Woodbury Institute afford quick relief from these troubles. All are quickly and thoroughly overcome.

Write to-day for another blank and full information; or better still, call and talk with one of our specialists. Consultation free.

CHAPTER CVII.—Continued

Copyright, 1905, by American Journal-Examiner

SHE was still standing there in a meditative attitude at the foot of the stairs when Parslow came back up the garden path with a little packet in his hand.

"I see little from the mail carrier at the gate, Mademoiselle," he said. "A letter, addressed to you. I signed for it."

He held out a small package.

"Merci bien?" she said, taking it with an eagerness she could not quite conceal.

"Who's sending you presents, Hortense, eh?" asked Sir Percival, who possessed a keen sense of curiosity.

"Ah, who?" smiled Hortense, provokingly. "The address, it looks like a man's handwriting, does it not? Now what if this should be a ring for my third finger? You see my poor finger, it is bare! It has been so long! I have been desolate that it has no ring!"

She cast a furtive glance from under her eyelashes at him.

This stupid old man, who would make such a rich husband, and who could not live very much longer—at least mad-mad sette kindly hoped he would not—was so be difficult to show in giving any sign that her charms had made an impression on him, but perhaps if she could make him believe—

"I hope not, Hortense," Mr. Parslow said quickly. "An engagement ring from a man! I certainly hope not, because——"

"Because?" she prompted softly.

Yes, he was getting jealous, surely. He could not bear to think that she contemplated an engagement ring! This charming lady, darted one of her most fascinating glances at him.

"Because," said Parslow, drily, "if you are so foolish as to go and engage yourself, you'll be wanting the man here, and I won't have it. With so many valuables in the house, I won't have strangers about."

"Oh!"

Too Foxy a Man

Mlle. Hortense flung herself angrily off, tossing her head in indignant chagrin.

So he was not jealous at all! Perhaps he did not intend to marry her; and she had wasted so much time, endured so much horrible boredom, listening to his pussy talk, his weak jokes!

Then a sudden change came over her face, and a smile took the place of her anger. An ominous smile—as she carried the packet to her room to open there.

She knew what was in that package—and it was certainly not a ring!

As Mlle. Hortense flounced away with a toss of her head Mr. Parslow looked after her, his temper in petticoats with a little smile.

He was by no means a fool—but nearly such a fool as Hortense imagined him to be; he could not have carried on his questionable profession all these years, and made a fortune out of it, without coming into unpleasant contact with the police if he had been, and he had a very shrewd idea of the Frenchwoman's designs on him.

"I'm too old a bird, mademoiselle," he thought, "and with that temper of yours I know the sort of dance you'd lead me if I gave you the opportunity of slipping a plain gold ring on your finger. It wouldn't do, Hortense; it wouldn't do!"

And he laughed quietly as he walked out into the garden again.

At the same moment, in the privacy of her room, the Frenchwoman was opening the neglected packet.

It did not contain a ring. Hortense had been perfectly aware when she spoke to her master that it did not contain a ring. All that was inside was a small key.

Curiosity Leads

A key that had been made from a wax impression, taken by Mlle. Hortense herself, of the key of Mr. Parslow's safe.

The safe stood in a small room, with windows overlooking the veranda, that the corner of the house used as the den.

Quite noiselessly Hortense slipped down the stairs and peeped cautiously out of the hall door.

The dapper little gentleman was out in the garden strutting up and down the paths, occasionally stooping to pick up a weed that had dared to show its miserable head on a flower-bed, as he waited for his guests. Mlle. Hortense stole into the room where the safe stood.

She first took the precaution to unfasten the catch of the French window; then she went hurriedly to the safe. Swiftly inserting the key, she threw back the door.

What was taking her employer to Amsterdam to-morrow? That was what the Frenchwoman was eager to discover. The key had only just come in time. Her bright, keen eyes scrutinized in a hasty glance the contents of the safe; files of dusty papers, some old-fashioned jewelry, and—a red pill box on one of the shelves.

The fair white fingers that had gathered the button-hook for Mr. Parslow's use stretched out swiftly for the pill-box; and as they touched it their owner's quick ears heard the sound of approaching voices from the garden path.

Evidently one of the guests had arrived, and in all probability Parslow would bring his guests into his "smuggery" to give them a small before dinner.

Interrupted

Yet the woman's excitement and curiosity were so intense that even at the risk of discovery she could not resist lingering to open the pill box.

"Ah, sacre nom!" The low cry broke from her lips almost as the door of the safe swung, with a gleam of covetous admiration, nestling inside the box the largest and most beautiful diamond she had ever seen.

So this was what was taking her employer to Amsterdam to-morrow.

She lingered, feasting a covetous gaze on the stone, as though she could not take her eyes off it, though she heard the footsteps pass into the hall. Then swiftly she thrust on the lid, replaced the "Mirror of the Moon" on the shelf, and closed and locked the door of the safe in breathless haste.

Had it not been for her precaution in unfastening the French window she must have been discovered. Mlle. Hortense slipped through the window on to the veranda just as Parslow threw open the door.

"Now, my boy!" he said, to the big, red-faced man with him, "you can find room for a cocktail before dinner—fancy it, eh?" with a snigger at his little joke.

And Mr. Newenwys, the undertaker, laughed, too, and seemed to think that he could bring quite a professional zest to the task.

Wednesday's Snapshot Was Quickly Identified by Lucky Shopper.

AND still they come!

Women shoppers are camping close on the trail of the Camera Man these days. Wherever he goes in the shopping district he is recognized by scores of busy buyers.

And its really remarkable when one of his little pictures goes unidentified for more than a day or two. It's a very rare exception when a picture goes forever into the list of the unclaimed and unknown.

Wednesday's picture was quickly claimed. The daily award of $2 was paid yesterday to Miss Belle Richardson of Waltham. The snapshot was taken near Siegel's Tuesday afternoon. Miss Richardson heard the click of the shutter and guessed its meaning. She was not surprised, therefore, and was quick to claim the reward when the picture appeared in Wednesday's paper.

When the Camera Man snaps you, do likewise. He may get you to-day or to-morrow, or any week day in the neighborhood of stores patronized by AMERICAN readers.

The Original of This Snapshot Will Receive a Reward of $2.

Trying to Make Serfs of Government Employes

The Effort Won't Succeed. The Postal Clerk and the Letter Carrier Have the Rights of Other Citizens

This newspaper has already commented on an order issued by Mr. Roosevelt's Postmaster-General forbidding letter carriers to endeavor to improve their working conditions.

The letter carriers are told that it is against the rules for them to seek to influence Congressmen, WHO ALONE CAN INCREASE THEIR PAY. They must humbly wait until it shall please some one of their "superiors" to take pity on them.

This order is issued by Mr. Roosevelt, who has not at all hesitated to have Congressmen influenced to DOUBLE HIS PAY. It is issued by Mr. Roosevelt, who has had a bill introduced in Congress to give him a hundred thousand dollars extra spending money and also a private car.

The people of the country wonder why it is that one public servant —THE LETTER CARRIER—is forbidden to try to improve his SMALL salary by direct appeals to Congressmen, while another government employe—Mr. Roosevelt—can do as he pleases about trying to increase his LARGE salary.

Now comes another interesting order of the same kind. It is dated Washington, August 17, 1906, and signed W. S. Shallenberger, Second Assistant Postmaster-General. Here it is—read it:

Office of Second Assistant Postmaster-General.
Washington, D. C., Aug. 17, 1906.

It is deemed essential to the proper administration of public business that officers and employes of this office shall maintain respectful official relations with railroad companies and other carrying companies as well as with their superior officers. Railway postal clerks must not engage in controversies with or criticisms of railroad officials involving the administration of the postal service by furnishing information to the newspapers or publicly discussing or denouncing the acts or omissions of such officials as affecting the postal service. Clerks violating this instruction will be subject to discipline and possible removal from the service. All information, criticism or complaint which clerks or officials can give from personal knowledge or obtain from credible sources looking to the betterment of the postal service and the comfort and safety of their persons while officially employed should be forwarded through their superior officers in order that prompt investigation and proper action may be taken.

W. S. SHALLENBERGER,
Second Assistant Postmaster-General.

Reader, wouldn't you think that this official order was written by the RAILROADS rather than by a representative of the people?

The people pay forty millions a year to the railroads for Post Office work—more than half of that money stolen by the railroads with the connivance of public officials.

The direct representatives of the people in the mail cars ARE THE MAIL CLERKS.

And the men that are most commonly KILLED in railroad accidents are those same mail clerks, BECAUSE THE MAIL CARS, RENTED TO THE GOVERNMENT AT AN ANNUAL RENTAL OF THEIR ENTIRE COST, ARE ONLY TINDER BOXES.

Clerks ALONE can give information that will protect the railway mail service of the people and their own lives. AND MR. ROOSEVELT'S ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL ISSUES AN ORDER TELLING THEM THAT THEY ARE NOT ALLOWED TO CRITICISE RAILROAD OFFICIALS.

Again, they are told to complain THROUGH THEIR "SUPERIOR OFFICERS." These superior officers, as a rule, know absolutely nothing about the railway mail service. THEY have not done the work of mail clerks in the cars; they are not able to protect the public interests against the railroads, even if they were INCLINED to do so.

When government ownership is talked of, a certain number of geese always allege that it would be a bad thing to have "a great army of government employes, because they would be the tools of the Administration."

It is pleasing to find that government employes at present ARE, ON THE CONTRARY, THE CRITICS OF THE ADMINISTRATION—THAT THEY SHOW MANLY INDEPENDENCE IN RESENTING SUCH STUPID ORDERS AS WE HAVE QUOTED ABOVE.

It would be well if the number of public employes were greatly increased. Their numbers at the polls should be so great that the Shallenbergers and others under Mr. Roosevelt's orders would not dare to issue and enforce rules more fit for Russia than for this country.

Little Editorials from the People

IN LETTERS A FOOT SQUARE

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

God bless the writer again and again for the editorial on liquor! I sincerely wish it could be engraved in every church, school and public building, and, most of all, the saloons, in letters a foot square. Every word is true. Surely God has no place for a rumseller.

MINISTER APPROVES EDITORIAL ON DRINK

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Allow me to thank you most heartily for the editorial on the drink question which appear 1 in your paper last Monday. It was, in every sense of the term, a splendid editorial. My attention was called to it by a friend and I was greatly pleased on reading it, both with the article itself and the fact that we have in Boston a paper the editor of which has the good sense and moral courage to issue such an editorial.

From beginning to end it is full of good moral common sense and thoroughly in accord with the facts of science, which ought to be known and understood by everybody. I often think that the newspapers of Boston are largely under the influence of the liquor interests, and partly on that account your editorial was a pleasing surprise to me. If the working men of Boston and the surrounding cities and towns will "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" your editorial, I am sure many of them will come to the sensible conclusion that it is a good thing to let intoxicating drink alone.

As a man who has been engaged in the teaching of science for twenty years I was especially pleased with the scientific treatment of the drink question, and the views stated in your editorial are such as I have often placed before my pupils.

If the real scientific facts in regard to the effects of intoxicating drinks on the human body were more generally known and understood, and people were more controlled by their intellects than their appetites, the sales of intoxicating drinks would fall off very largely in a short time.

The moral and economic aspects of the drink question are often discussed, and it is fitting that they should be, for there is much need of it in every city and town in this Commonwealth. Let the good work go on. I hope, also, that persons who are competent to discuss the question scientifically will do so at every fitting opportunity. Again thanking you for your very able editorial.

LIKED EDITORIAL ON DRUNKENNESS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Regarding the editorial in the BOSTON AMERICAN of Monday, September 10, would like to let you know how near to my ideas that article reads. I wish all the newspapers in the land would take such an interest in trying to show how much evil springs from the use of drink and its companion, cigarettes. Don't forget to speak of the latter. I despise them so that I refuse to sell them in the store, and anyone that knows me understands that beer or whiskey are fighting words with me. I have Monday's editorial on drunkenness posted up in my store, and mean to call attention to it on any and every occasion. Success to the BOSTON AMERICAN, the paper that is not afraid to express its ideas and keeps the people interested.

WHO CAN ANSWER THIS?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Is it better to strive for personal comfort, get it and afterward get married happiness, than to strive for married happiness, get it, and remain a personal slave? I would like to hear your opinion about the above in your worthy BOSTON AMERICAN.
ANDREW VAN EGINOTT.
No. 10 Pearl street, Lynn.

BLAMES TELEGRAPHERS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The telegraphers are responsible for the new style of spelling. It is customary among telegraph operators while conversing on the wire to spell the words as they sound and to abbreviate as much as possible. Furthermore, Mr. Andrew Carnegie is an old-time telegraph operator.

Time Wasted in Useless Studies in the Schools Should Be Devoted to Learning the Languages

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

MORE and more, as I travel about the world, I realize the mistake our American parents and our American school system are making in their methods of education.

Thousands of children are wasting precious hours on the study of drawing, but possess not the least ability in that line; others are given rhetoric and composition, botany and anatomy and a smattering of languages, and never make use of any of these studies.

All this broken time on useless labors might better be applied to the thorough mastering of some one language, besides English.

I am acquainted with hundreds of young women and men who have graduated from high schools, seminaries, business colleges and normal colleges. Not ten of these speak any language but English.

If the subject of languages is referred to in America to-day the great majority of students, and even educators, reply that English is rapidly becoming the universal tongue.

They will tell you that one can travel anywhere and find English spoken.

As far as the actual benefit and use of the English language goes this American statement of its universality is absolutely untrue.

I have walked a dozen blocks in a half-dozen cities in Holland and Belgium and addressed a score of people before I found one who could speak or understand a word of English.

Three-fourths of the pleasure and benefit in my travels has come from the knowledge of the French tongue, imperfect as that knowledge is.

American tourists will tell you that you can get along just as well and see all the sights and enjoy all the pleasures of foreign travel without knowing any tongue but English.

Wasted Study

AGAIN I say the statement is most erroneous.

He who imagines he has had the best of travel in this way is laboring under a grave mistake. He is like one who thinks he has dined when he has had only soup and fish.

Whether one travels for business, for pleasure or for social benefits, the best results are not obtained without some knowledge of a second language.

Not only are there millions of people in Europe who do not speak or understand our language, but there are thousands who absolutely do not know what the language of America is!

A young man, a graduate of a business college in Holland, asked me if the American language was not very much like the English.

The American people who are looking for the day when English will be the universal tongue will have to wait at least a thousand years.

Therefore, instead of wasting precious years on hashed-up studies, which produce no beneficial result on the mind and serve to weaken the power of concentration, let our young Americans select either French or German, when the mind is in its period of acquisition of knowledge, and perfect themselves in that tongue.

The knowledge of a second language is highly enriching to the mind.

It opens up vast storehouses of pleasure and information even in the matter of literature alone.

For a young man about to enter into business it is most valuable.

For a young woman it means social privileges and benefits.

In travel it is the main source of pleasure and satisfaction.

Of course one can employ a courier if economy is not to be considered who will act as a mouthpiece and interpreter.

But a courier can be a great nuisance as well as a great helper, and there are a thousand and one situations in travel where a courier is not obtainable or advisable.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

To all parents ambitious for the education of their children I would urge the matter of languages.

Encourage and stimulate your children to master some tongue besides their own. A stenographer who is able to write and read French or German, Italian or Spanish is of great assistance to large business houses, and can command an excellent salary.

In every position life presents to the young a knowledge of two languages will prove of inconceivable value.

Learn French

STUDY the languages. You will live to be glad of every hour so applied.

If you can study but one, select French. It is the "Court" language of the world. It is spoken by the majority of educated people in Europe, whatever may be their native tongue.

Where one person of education in Holland and Germany speaks English, one hundred speak French.

In Mayence, Germany, a city of 91,000, few English-speaking residents are to be found.

Not one American family lives in the city.

Here a peculiarly important service was rendered me by an acquaintance with French phrases.

An excruciating toothache seized me en route to the city, and the difficulty was one requiring a skilful dental operation.

The dentist recommended as the best spoke not one word of English, and I not one word of German.

We met on the common ground of France, however, to both my mental and physical relief.

It was one of a hundred occasions where I had cause to rejoice over the hours and years I spent in the study of French after I had received my diploma.

The desire of President Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie to render the English language simple and to cause it to be the "Court language of the world," instead of French, will require at least five hundred years before it can be realized.

If you intend to travel abroad before the extinction of that period, and desire the fullest benefit from your travels, begin now to study languages.

A Ballade of the Day After Pay Day

By William F. Kirk

I WONDER in what tailor's till
Are found the dollars earned by me,
On what plush-decked lobster mill
My silver ducats now can be.
Where is my salary? Perdie!
Boston has yanked it all away,
And now I murmur wistfully,
"Where is the wage of yesterday?"

AND tell me where's that yellow bill
Which I surveyed with childish glee?
Outside my roll, with mangy a thrill,
I placed that bill where all might see.
The butcher, though, must have his fee
From each and every married jay;
Nor will he take a hard-luck plea,
Where is the wage of yesterday?

WERE I as rich as Pittsburg Phil
That time he made the "bookies" flee,
I would be out of kopecks still—
Because I have to set them free.
Six days a week I'm up a tree,
Which fact accounts for what I say:
Where is my niece, fat sal-a-ree?
Where is the wage of yesterday?

ENVOY.

CASHIER! While scattering o'er the tea
My more or less earned weekly pay,
I put this question up to thee:
Where is the wage of yesterday?

NOW WHAT D'YE THINK OF THAT?

"Are you a chimney-sweep?" she asked,
With great acidity.

"No, madam, I'm the president
Of the Airship Club," said he.

"Are you a burglar, sir?" she asked,
With something like hauteur.

"Oh, no," said he, quite pleasantly,
"I am your new chauffeur."
